15 HARRICANA PAR MARIOUCHE

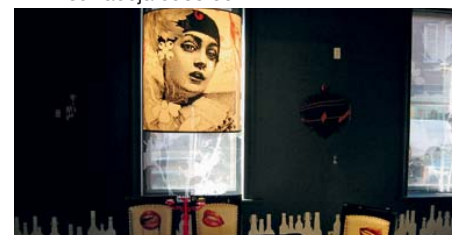

3000, rue Saint-Antoine Ouest
Phone: +1-514-287-6517
www.harricana.qc.ca

Back in 1993, Montreal fashion designer Mariouche Gagné needed to raise money to finance her studies. Lacking the resources to buy the necessary raw materials, she cut up a fur coat belonging to her mother. This proved to be the genesis of

17 SURFACE JALOUSE

Montreal designer Stacey Zhang, who grew up in Jamaica, works with classy materials such as Italian silk, cashmere and mohair. Her elegant, understated classic creations are produced in limited editions, mostly by local tailors and seamstresses. Her studio is located in the shop on Sainte Catherine Street.

19 CHOCOLATERIE SUISSE

2080, rue Crescent
Phone: +1-514-499-0626
www.chocolateriesuisse.com

Lovers of Swiss confections have a place of their own in Montreal. The Chocolaterie Suisse imports just about everything that Helvetia produces on behalf of the world's sweet-toothed population. From everyday milk chocolate and Basler Leckerli to Appenzeller Biberli and exquisite pralines by Tschirren of Bern.

20 LA BOUQUINERIE

799, av. du Mont-Royal Est
Phone: +1-514-523-5628

The presence of good music stores go hand in hand with Montreal's dynamic music scene. In addition to the big outlets downtown such as HMV and Indigo, there are plenty of specialist shops. A good place for second-hand discs is the Bouquinerie, which stocks a comprehensive selection of classical, jazz and world music. Right next door are Le Marché du Disque and L' Echange.

21 RETRO-VILLE

799, av. du Mont-Royal Est
Phone: +1-514-523-5628

The name says it all. The owners collect everything retro, whether attractive, ugly, weird or absurd. Advertising signs, medicinal bottles, model rockets, juke boxes, cola tins, taxi insignias and much more. To stroll through the shop is to go in a journey of discovery through Montreal's recent history. A paradise for the nostalgically inclined and ethnologists with an interest in consumer behaviour.

ART

Museums, galleries, concerts, numerous festivals: culture-seeking tourists will find themselves spoilt for choice in Montreal. One of the most exciting recent projects is the Parisian Laundry, a private gallery that organises large thematic exhibitions in the wonderfully restored rooms of a former laundry. The Fonderie Darling is located in a former foundry. The cultural centre comprises an exhibition room, artist studios and the Cluny Artbar (see under Cafés). Another highlight is DHC/ART, a multi-storey art centre that was recently much in the news thanks to a highly regarded exhibition of the work of French artist Sophie Calle.
